Universal machine base frame with a spacious storage

Order and stability for manual workstations

The base frame offers a universal use for the pad printing machine series SEALED INK CUP E and HERMETIC. A large storage space as well as a useful storage shelf for tools provide for a well-arranged and neat workplace where also cables and hoses can be laid.

Machine base frame with optional angle table

The machine base frame can be universally used for the pad printing machines SEALED INK CUP E and HERMETIC, offering a sturdy and stable stand during the printing process.

Thanks to the integrated cable routing, cables and hoses can properly and orderly be laid. Even the footswitch cable is placed in this safe space, contributing safety at work.

Pad printing machine with base frame

A large storage space in the base frame offers enough place for several accessories and consumables. The storage shelf in the front is very useful for tools.

An angle table can optionally be mounted at the frame, enabling printing of different product sizes. In addition, cross slide or profile plates can also be installed, so that the pad printing machine can be used for multiple purposes.
